In this deeply personal and inspiring memoir, author Sarah Jones shares her extraordinary journey of living with lupus for over five decades.

Diagnosed at the age of 19, Sarah's life was forever changed by this debilitating autoimmune disease.

Through vivid storytelling, Sarah recounts the challenges she has faced, from debilitating pain and fatigue to social isolation and discrimination. She candidly shares her struggles with medication side effects, hospitalizations, and the emotional toll of living with a chronic illness.

Despite the adversity she has endured, Sarah's unwavering spirit shines through on every page. She credits her faith, her family, and her indomitable will with giving her the strength to persevere.

More than just a memoir, this book is a treasure trove of practical advice for others living with lupus or chronic illnesses. Sarah generously shares her coping mechanisms, self-care strategies, and tips for navigating the healthcare system.

But beyond the practicalities, Sarah's story is ultimately a testament to the power of hope. She shows us that even in the darkest of times, there is always light to be found. She encourages readers to embrace their own unique journeys, to find joy in the small things, and to never give up on their dreams.

Fifty-Nine Years with Thomas and Lupus is a must-read for anyone touched by chronic illness, as well as for those who simply seek inspiration and a reminder of the human spirit's resilience.
